The ceremony was the most imposing demonstration ever siven by that order on this coast. Two hundred and ninety-four lodges, all belonging to the State, were represented, with over 10,000 members in procession. Governor Stoneman proclaimed the day a legal holiday, a templiment never before paid any order in this State. The banks closed and all busicess was suspended. The new hall will be accompanied by a number of his aristocratic friends, who propose to pass a few weeks roughing it on the Earl's Texas ranch, and whom he hopes to persuade to purchase hand and settle as his neighbors.
